

BNVs intervene to stop Corruption

When the conscience of the whole nation is stirred by the movement to rid the country of corruption, a unique case has been reported from Pedaparupudi (Mandalam) in Krishna District of Andhra Pradesh.

An old poor village woman has been saving a small portion out of her meager monthly income for months together and depositing the same in her post office account hoping that it might come handy at times need. However, the local Post Master clandestinely withdrew Rs.8000/- from her account by putting a fake thumb impression. On detecting this, the lady approached the BNVs. 20 BNVs from the village met the Post Master and prevailed on him to return the money illegally withdrawn from the account of the helpless and poor woman. The errant Post Master returned the entire amount which he had withdrawn from the account of the old lady illegally. The woman was grateful to the BNVs as her hard earned savings was salvaged.
